

ANNUAL REPORT

2021

The Connor, Clark & Lunn Foundation (CC&L Foundation) aims to enrich the communities in which we live and work by creating opportunities for both philanthropy and volunteerism from employees and partners of the CC&L Financial Group and its affiliates in support of causes that are important to our clients, employees, partners and stakeholders.

Chairman's Letter

In 2021, we recognized the increased need to support the local communities in which we live and work. We're proud to have launched a number of initiatives that contribute to building stronger communities and support the people who make the CC&L Financial Group and all the affiliates such great places to work. I have included some highlights of our progress throughout the year below.

March – As part of our Diversity and Inclusion efforts, we launched scholarships to support several diverse student groups and improve their access to higher education. We have partnered with a number of organizations to facilitate these scholarships including Indspire, the Black Business and Professional Association, and the National Educational Association of Disabled Students.

April – We became a founding member of the Business Leaders for Mental Health Action initiative, led by the Centre for Addictions and Mental Health (CAMH). Through this initiative, we made a multi-year commitment to the CAMH Foundation. Additionally, leaders across the CC&L Financial Group have gained access to CAMH professionals and resources, which will enable us to improve our workplace mental health awareness, support and management.

June – We donated to the Canadian Red Cross in support of India's COVID-19 relief efforts and resiliency for future pandemic and emergency events. As our newest office location has recently opened up in Gurugram, India, it is important that we support a community where many future employees call home. In addition, we supported eleven different organizations across Canada in support of their COVID-19 relief.

November – The CC&L Foundation held its inaugural Week of Giving. For over 20 years, CC&L Financial Group and affiliate employees and partners have supported the United Way in an annual campaign across all Canadian offices. This year, through the Week of Giving, we directed that support to three national organizations focused on protecting our environment: Ecotrust Canada, Nature Conservancy of Canada, and Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society. This campaign raised funds and awareness on current climate change and wildlife issues.

November – In response to the significant flooding in the interior of British Columbia and the Fraser Valley, the CC&L Foundation supported the disaster recovery efforts by matching staff donations.

As we look ahead, we remain diligent and grateful that we are able to continue supporting communities and organizations in need. We are proud of what we have achieved in 2021 and will continue to make a difference in the areas that matter most to our clients, employees, partners and stakeholders.

Areas of Focus

The Foundation strives to support charities and not-for-profit organizations in the following areas.

Environment – organizations that address climate change, and promote conservation, preservation and protection of our ecosystems and biodiversity

Education – organizations that offer educational programs, community-based programs, as well as fund scholarships and research initiatives

Science & Medicine – organizations that provide quality healthcare, work to advance medical research, and promote education

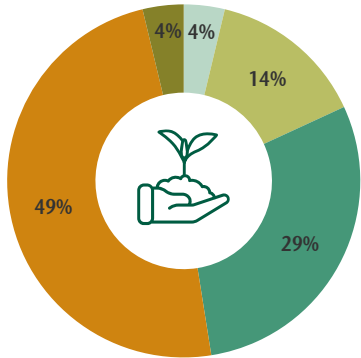

Communities – organizations and initiatives that assist those most at risk, offer community housing, and many community services

Arts – organizations that promote the importance of arts and culture into our communities
